

Neighborhood Leadership Cleveland Class 34 Application

Neighborhood Leadership Cleveland (NLC) is a grassroots leadership development program of Neighborhood Leadership Institute. It's held January-May in partnership with the Maxine Goodman Levin College of Urban Affairs at Cleveland State University, and provides an opportunity for community residents to engage with a network of leaders who support each other and enhance citizen participation. To learn more about the program and its history, visit neighborhoodleadership.org or call (216) 812-8700.

Application Process

A committee made up of NLC graduates and Institute staff will review all complete applications and then interview applicants. Candidates will be selected based on their application, recommendation letters, interviews, and such criteria as demonstrated neighborhood involvement, willingness to learn, diversity, and commitment to the program.

The deadline to apply is November 15, 2017.

Cost of Participation

Each participant is responsible for a $150 program fee, payable in three installments if desired. The full cost of the class is $2,500 per participant, which includes cost of materials, meals, retreat, bus tour, and program staff. This cost is covered through grants and fundraising. Please indicate below if you have access to any of the following ways to support the program and ensure its continuation. (Contributions are tax-deductible.)

_____ My employer/organization/council member* can support my participation. Amount: $ _____

_____ I can make a contribution over and above the program fee: Amount $ _____

No money is due until you have received written confirmation of your acceptance into the program.

*Check with your employer to find out if and to what extent you may qualify for educational benefits. Neighborhood Leadership Cleveland is available for advanced academic credit from Cleveland State University through the Maxine Goodman Levin College of Urban Affairs. Please call for more information.
